Support the Mission-Critical Needs of the Federal Aviation Administration

The Need

In their quest to acquire a higher-standard of training excellence for Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) Managers, the FAA sought a knowledgeable, experienced, strategic partner to provide continuous improvement in their Executive Leadership training programs and course materials. The FAA chose DMS International (DMS) to provide this service.

The Solution

DMS assisted in transforming the existing FAA program from the limited and simplistic focus of “management training” courses, to a life-encompassing and next generational, career-long learning experience. This level of change ensures continuous career learning and professional growth for Front Line Managers.

DMS helped the FAA to embrace new training concepts and instruments that enabled not only efficient, but also effective training. DMS assisted with the transformation from classroom curriculum to blended learning, employing relevant curriculum through multiple eLearning tools and strategies. The outcome was the initiation of a culture of continuous educational growth, resulting in higher standards of excellence within the FAA.

The Benefit

The FAA can now move forward with implementing Destination 2025 strategy. This strategic vision requires enhanced skills, technology, equipment, system oversight, and management that can now be met. Making the FAA a workplace of choice is a prime component of Destination 2025, and DMS, through its excellence in instructional support services, has imparted those skills to the FAA Management and student to achieve this component. It was vital that the FAA had the right people, with the right skills, in the right positions, to achieve long-term goals. As their strategic partner, DMS remains 100% committed to the continuing achievements of the Center for Executive Management and to the achievements of their training goals.
